THE VIEWS, VOICES, & VISION OF OUR CFF FAMILY

AWARENESS

The world has experienced major events over the last few years; some have brought us joy knowing benevolence exists in our present world, while others caused anxiety at the realization that our world has not come as far as we thought. Sometimes we dwell on the scary but today, let us remember the resilience that abides in us, the passion for justice we possess and the ability to be agents for justice in our world.

This February, join CFF and the rest of our community, to celebrate Black History month-long. We also invite you to look at it through a world-lens as we also celebrate World Day of Social Justice on February 20th. Think of the contributions in the world by Black people but also about the injustices they face even in today's world. Think about marginalized communities and how we can fight alongside them for social justice.

ACTION

CFF's EDI Committee invites you to take action, learn more information, and continue to identify ways to advance EDI within our communities, country, and world.

From your home:

*Donate to charities that support anti-racism equity and equality

*Visit the National Museum of African American History and Culture

In the community:

*Support black-owned businesses

*Attend ethnically focused community events

*Begin or continue your commitment to being an Antiracist

TERMS & FAQS

What does EDI stand for?

EDI stands for Equity, Diversity, & Inclusion

What is World Day of Social Justice?

The celebration reflects on guaranteeing fair outcomes for all through employment, social protection, social dialogue, and fundamental principles and rights at work. The declaration was first announced on June 8, 2008, as a step from the United Nations (UN) toward a commitment for continuous social justice and fair globalization.
